Dear Parents,

Spelling words for next week: bed, men, red, step, ten, net, leg, jet, sled, wet, *saw, and *your.

We will be having a science test next Thursday. The study guide will go home on Monday with the homework folders.

We have a new pal. She is a foreign exchange student from Denmark. She speaks several languages and is going to teach us some Danish words. She has already taught them one and two. Her name is Cardi.

We have 19 kids if you are bringing in a treat for birthdays or Halloween.

December 19th at 6:00 p.m. will be the Christmas concert.

We will be having a fall festival once again this year. Our class will be responsible for a toy box. If you could either donate a game or toy that would be great. The PCAC raises money for books for the entire school. Next year the elementary will be needing new math books as our subscription will be expiring.

Computer news

We are now able to log into and use all of our school websites. On Mondays we will go to spellingcity. Tuesdays will be mobymax. Wednesday will be xtramath and abcmouse or pearsonrealize. Typingclub will be on Thursday. Leaneducation will be Friday. We will be going on google.docs at the end of the day some days to write our stories.

If you or your child has a library card, they can go to tumblebooks on the pldl.org site and listen to, read, and play some games related to books.

Here is a site for readers. It is called epic. Go to www.getepic.com/students. Students log in with our class code zby8672. They can enjoy some really good books there.

We will not be going to skoolbo.com as it is no longer free. We never even got around to downloading it at school. They announced this week they are going to start charging for it. If you were using it at home, the free subscription will end November 8th.
